Well, this is the end of a perfect day,
Near the end of a journey, too;
But it leaves a thought that is big and strong,
With a wish that is kind and true.
For mem'ry has painted this perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day,
The soul of a friend we've made.

Dedication

We, the Two Hundredth graduating class of the Episcopal Academy, dedicate our Tabula to a true professional whose intelligence, support, and love have been great influences in our development. Our association with this person dates back ten years, and relationships between wide-eyed, wisecracking Middle Schoolers and a caring faculty member have since evolved into strong bonds between respecting students and a true friend.

Bright and knowledgeable, this individual has an expertise that stretches into many fields, and a keen mind that set us on the right track with any homework problem or paper. Yet, like any good teacher, this faculty member knows how to spark intellects outside of the realms of academia. Daily visits and conversations often got us talking about things important to us, and hence, thinking.

But indeed, beyond being students and teacher, we are friends. Never afraid to open up, laugh, jibe, and sympathize with us, this person inspired circles of students to gather around throughout the day. Here was an adult who knew us, would advise us, and whose wit always seemed to cheer us up just when work and deadlines were piling high.

Perhaps we have not always shown our appreciation for this individual's selfless backing. We hope that our boisterous behavior which sometimes made life hectic and frustrating for this teacher was seen as students' pent-up energy and never as ingratitude. This dedication says what maybe we should have said earlier: we are deeply thankful for our chance to build a friendship with this special person.

The Bicentennial Class of Episcopal is privileged to be the first class to honor a woman with the dedication of the Tabula. We hereby dedicate this book to our supporter and friend, Mrs. Mary Anne Madarasz.

Appreciation

*Actions speak louder than words.

Each of these sayings expresses this woman's relationship with our class and our school.

When she first became associated with Episcopal, as a member of The Board of Trustees, we were not receiving much publicity in the form of pictures in the local press. Many of us complained; she took action by establishing a routine to insure regular delivery of pictures to The Main Line Times and The Suburban and Wayne Times.

Her presence at school events produced pictures worth thousands of words. We have her photographs on our walls at home, in our parents' and grandparents' collections, and in our Scolium, Tabula, Episcopal Magazine, School Catalogue and Chapel Brochure. Each time we look at her work we will remember her devotion to us. We, the Class of 1984, express our gratitude to Mrs. Rosalinda Madara in the Appreciation of this year's Tabula.

THANK YOU!

A Brief History of Women at Episcopal

In this year when the first girls will graduate from the Academy, it may be interesting to trace the history of women at the Academy during its first 200 years.

The founders seem to have had no thought of having girls in the first classical academy. There were girls' schools in Philadelphia, and one of the Academy's early teachers, John Ely, ran the Young Ladies' Academy after leaving here, but that does not seem to have concerned the Rev. William White and his colleagues. At any rate that first academy disappeared in 1790.

In 1789 Bishop White and the trustees started a free school — a charity school to teach the basic 3 R's to the children of needy Episcopalians. At first this, too, was planned for boys only, but at the suggestion of the vestry of St. Paul's Church a separate free school for girls was added. This girls' free school opened in January 1789, and lasted, moving to several different locations, until 1815. The school was a simple affair, consisting of one room, a stove, some benches, a teacher, and between nineteen and forty students. For all 26 years the teacher was a lady names Mary Barnes, about whom we know very little except that she borrowed salary ahead in 1802 in order to get out of town during a plague. She was paid a third of the salary paid to the teacher of the boys' school, and never got a raise.

From 1815 to 1918, a total of 103 years, no women were apparently connected with the Academy. After 1846, however, once or twice a year on Commendation Day, a bevy of handsomely dressed ladies would crowd the chapel of the Academy on Locust Street to applaud politely as a son, a brother, or a friend received a prize or recited a poem or oration.

In September 1918, when the janitor-clerk of the Academy died, he was replaced by Mary R. Kuhnle as stenographer — the Academy's second female employee. By 1921 Eva J. Ross had been hired to run the switchboard and do whatever else needed to be done. She remained at the Academy for over thirty years.

After moving to Merion in 1921, the Academy got more and more students in the lower grades. When Greville Haslam in 1923 suggested using female teachers for the youngest boys, the trustees balked. But when a separate Lower School building was purchased in 1930, women teachers were hired, and Miss Elizabeth Lukens was made supervisor. However when Miss Lukens in 1933 went so far toward coeducation as to enroll two little girls in a summer play school, the trustees brought her up short.

Apparently the first woman faculty member in Upper School was Miss Katherine Rambo (1948-1954). She was also the first full-time librarian.

In June 1970 the trustees decided "in principle" that the Academy should become coeducational. Once this decision was made, women began to appear on campus in increasing numbers. The trustees in 1971 elected Mrs. Joan

R. Scott and Mrs. Ruth Berlinger as their first female members. In 1971-1972, when the Academy was considering the possibility of a merger with the Shipley School, eight Shipley girls spent their senior year at Episcopal. Mrs. Doris Bonneau became the first female classroom teacher in Upper School in 1972. That same year Rita Denny spent her senior year at the Academy. Girls were first enrolled as regular Academy students in the first three grades in the fall of 1974; those who then enrolled in third grade are the ones who graduate this June, and have served as pioneers through their school careers. The last barrier to be broken was the appointment of a female administrator in Upper School; this was accomplished in September 1983 with the appointment of Candice McRee as Dean of Students.

Keep it open wide
Give it time to fall or climb

 For out of the world we find Success begins with a fellow's will-
 It's all in the state of mind.
 If you think you are outclassed, you are-
 You've got to think high to rise.
 You've got to be sure of yourself before
 You can ever win a prize.
 Life's battles don't always go
 To the stronger or faster man;
 But soon or late the man who wins
 Is the man who thinks he can.*

I know you all and will awhile uphold the unyoked Humor of your idleness. Yet herein will I imitate the Sun who doth permit the basic contagious clouds to smother up his beauty from the world that, when he please again to be himself, being wanted he may be more wondered at by breaking through the foul and ugly mists of vapors that did seem to strange him. If all the years were playing holidays, to sport would be as tedious as to work; but when they seldom come, they wished — for come and nothing pleaseth but rare accidents. So when this loose behavior, throw off and pay the debt in ever promised, by how much better than my word am I, by so much shall I falsify men's hopes; and, like bright metal on a sullen ground my reformation, glittering o'er my fault, shall show more goodly and attract more eyes than that which hath no foil to set it off. I'll offend as to make offense a skill, redeeming time when men think least I will.

Football

The 1983 chapter of the Episcopal Academy varsity football team enjoyed one of the finest seasons in the school's history. Led by senior Co-captains Chris Flynn and Dolph Tokarczyk, the team rose to the #2 ranking in the city of Philadelphia. With a final record of 7-0-1, this team ranks second in Episcopal history only to that great 9-0 team of 1981.

Head Coach Jim "Jimmers" Auch's churchmen took the field for the first game against Perkiomen with an untested line. Only Dolph Tokarczyk had major experience in games, and most people felt the key to the season would depend on the performance of the line. Fortunately Roger Reynolds, Chris Giles, Paul Tirjan, Mike Duross, and John Meehan jelled into a very good unit and opened many holes for the backs and provided solid protection for quarterback Joe Bellini.

The Indians from Perkiomen fell 33-6 as a strong defense led by Senior linebacker Rafe Rosato keyed the rout. Chris Flynn and Mike Graul led a dominant offense to victory number one.

With a high powered offense and a strong defense the team rolled through their next three opponents. Pennwood was thrashed 34-6, Garnet Valley was stomped 42-31 and Central was abused 35-6. The line had jelled into a thorough unit and everything was falling into place for Jimmers and the rest of the staff. The only question that remained for the team was whether Jimmers would get a new fashion coordinator, which he never did, thus ruining the Churchmen's hopes for a successful season.

The squad opened Inter-Ac play against Malvern with a 4-0 record but was largely untested. Once again Chris Flynn rose to the occasion. He went 51 yards on the first play for a touchdown and set the tone. Joe Bellini raced 9 yards for another touchdown and the deciding points.

Rafe Rosato took a pitch late in the game and sealed the victory, 21-6.

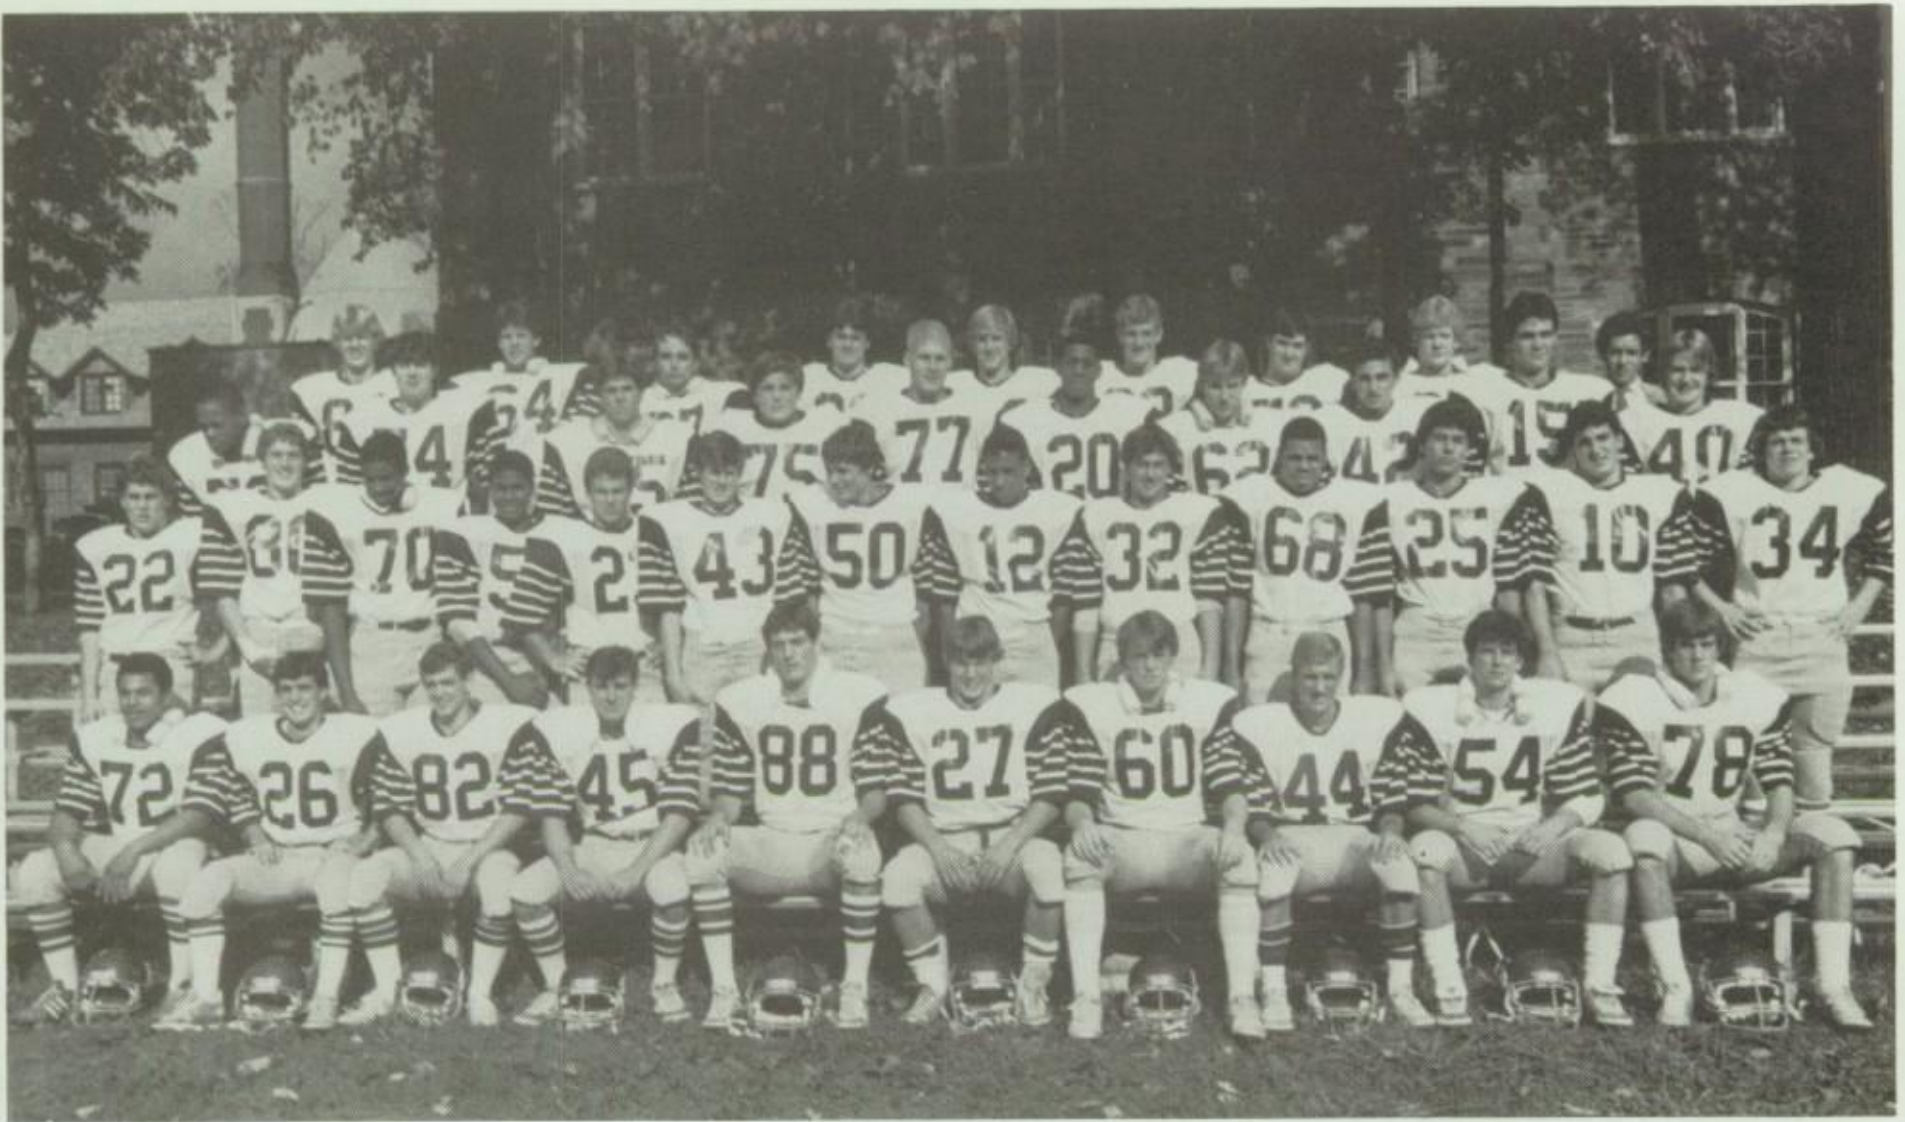

Bellini played outstandingly the following week as he led the team to a tough 42-28 victory at Germantown Academy. His running and passing, combined with the usual outstanding play of Flynn, keyed the second league victory.

Haverford was next and became the victims of Flynn's finest day. He raced for a career high 255 yards and led the team to a 28-6 victory.

Then came the "game of the decade." The undefeated and number two ranked Churchmen visited the undefeated and number three ranked Penn Charter Quakers. Flynn did his usual on the game's third play as he raced 42 yards for an early 7-0 lead. The lead held up until 10:07 remained in the game when Charter knotted the score. Then with just seven seconds left Charter had a chance to win it. They lined up for a short field goal that would give them the victory and the Inter-Ac title. Fortunately for Churchmen fans, Dolph Tokarczyk had other plans on how his season was going to end. He went high to deny the kick and preserve the tie and a part of a third straight title.

The season did not end the way most people would have liked it to, but a part of a title is better than none. Flynn and Tokarczyk led the team very well. Coach Auch will lose the seniors, but has a fine group of underclassmen. Graduation will take Flynn, Tokarczyk, Chris Giles, Roger Reynolds, Greg Jannetta, Fran Murray, Brian Smith, Bob Gibson, Brian Louderback, Rafe Rosato and Travis Minott.

Next year's captains Jim Dugan and Rich Aldridge will lead the returning group. With several starters returning they should have another fine team. Congratulations to the team of 1983 and good luck to the team of 1984.

The varsity soccer team had a very interesting year under Coach Mark Luff. The squad was constantly plagued with injuries, which took away from their play. There are many positive signs that indicate that next year will start another long string of winning seasons for the Episcopal Varsity Soccer program. The skill of the underclassmen, along with their experience on a varsity team, will account for this success.

With Co-Captain Michael Ross injured with a sprained ankle, Co-Captain Bill Keffer had to undertake a lot of responsibility to keep the team together. Keffer should be credited for doing a great job under often dismal circumstances.

Episcopal's scoring attack missed junior Rich Roe who suffered a serious ankle injury. Senior Dave Fine and sophomore Wren Smith did a fine job with their offensive play. The team consists of many solid junior players, including Bill Stelwagon, Bill Sweidel, Goalie Andy MacIntosh and Scott McMullin. The future looks much brighter for the Episcopal Academy Soccer Team.

Field Hockey

The girls' field hockey team, seasoned with one year of Varsity experience behind them, was well equipped for a 6-3-4 winning season. The team was able to boast a strong core of eight seniors, all returning starters from the 1982 season.

In August the Varsity and Junior Varsity traveled to the Poconos for a week of field hockey camp. Well-prepared, the team began their season with two decisive victories over Merion Mercy and Friends Select. The Varsity then took the Inter-Ac League by storm and posted victories against Shipley and Germantown Academy, the only goal in this game being scored by forward Katherine Curry.

The climax of the season occurred in early November when the team met up with powerhouse Agnes Irwin. Episcopal was psyched and nervous (for dual reasons); Agnes Irwin was pumped up and cocky. Keeping our heads together and playing our best hockey ever, E.A. defeated Agnes Irwin. This victory clinched 2nd place in the Inter-Ac League.

Co-Captains Kim Crawford and Ellen Madarasz were named to the All-Main Line Team. Honorable Mention was awarded to Michele Rast and Jeannie Plzak.

Coach Baldwin distributed the team's successes to positive senior leadership, cohesive teamwork and great spirit. Much of this strong teamwork must be credited to seniors Jenny Wallace, Michele Rast, Traci Warrington, and Debbie Horn who supplied a formidable defense.

The Bowl Cut Captains, Bean, Firehead, Giggles, The Haverford State Escapee, Srawny and Hunch wish the best of luck for a super season next year to: Rigor Mortis, Broom Hilda, Odie, Muffy, Mac's Girl, and Satan.

Cross Country

Cross-Country

Ullman, Blume, Trabulsi, Johnson, Mr. Hare, Buchanan, Laden, Thompson, Blatchford, Mr. Compson.

Does this year's team look different from last year's? It should. Only two varsity runners remained from the previous year. That leaves five runners new to the varsity squad, two of whom have never run cross-country before. The team possessed, however, a level of enthusiasm and determination which allowed it to develop into a very strong, primarily underclassmen team.

The first tense situation developed after a phone call from Chestnut Hill. Their coach, who believes himself to contain infinite knowledge concerning cross-country, stated that Chestnut Hill would beat Episcopal. Taking him seriously, the team prepared for the challenge. There was silence just before the race. The gun went off and Episcopal ran a decisive but puzzling 22-40 victory.

A meet at George School provided the knowledge that Haverford was close. This is the time when the combination of mathematician and coach becomes invaluable. Working with theoretical outcomes, Mr. Compson realized Episcopal would most likely lose by two points — unless somebody from Haverford dropped dead. Instead Doug Blatchford (freshman) decided to improve from position eight to position four. That was enough to create a four point victory over Haverford. In order to place third in the league this performance had to be duplicated at the Inter-Ac Championship.

It was 22° that day and motivation was something one had to search for. These conditions favored the determined Episcopal team more than they realized and the gap between Episcopal and Haverford widened. The team placed Jason Trabulsi seventh (All-Inter-Ac) and Chris Blume fourteenth, followed by Paul Ladner, Doug Blatchford, Chris Johnson, Roger Ullman, Andrew Thompson, and Travis Lundy. Finishing third in the league, Episcopal was defeated only by Penn Charter and an incredibly predominating senior Germantown Academy team. Penn Charter also graduated large numbers. So for the Episcopal 1 senior, 1 junior, 5 sophomore, and 1 freshman team the outlook is very good.

Basketball

Varsity Basketball

In terms of wins and losses, the 1983-84 Basketball squad did not compare with ones of recent years, by finishing with a modest 13-14 record. They did, however, compare with the desire and enthusiasm shown by their predecessors in their ability to rebound from a disappointing 1-4 start and finish with a respectable record, one game under the .500 mark. Struggling for consistency all season, the team gained their confidence midway through the year and regrouped to post impressive late season victories over league rivals Malvern and William Penn Charter. During the Christmas break, E.A. once again participated in two holiday tournaments, winning the consolation bracket in the Hill School Invitational (5th place) and achieving a 3rd place in the Wayne Rotary Tournament.

This year's thirteen member squad consisted of six seniors, two of whom were starters. Captain Dolph Tokarczyk led the team all year with his consistent play around the basket, finishing the season with a 20 point average. Rob Braker was also an effective starter who provided an outside scoring threat and along with Tokarczyk won the prestigious Markward Award, given to the outstanding Inter-Academic Player of the Week. Other seniors included occasional starter Jay Love, Jon Erickson, Ted Pagano, and James Brown, who all came off the bench. Four juniors helped comprise this year's squad with Todd Pride and David Casey serving as starters. Wade Williams and Hugh Haynie added depth to the frontcourt while John Meehan, the only sophomore on the squad, was very aggressive in his first year of varsity action. One of the brighter notes of the season was the surprising play of two exciting freshmen, forward Paul Gilhool and guard Jeffrey Hines. Both showed great promise and no doubt will figure heavily in future E.A. hoop plans.

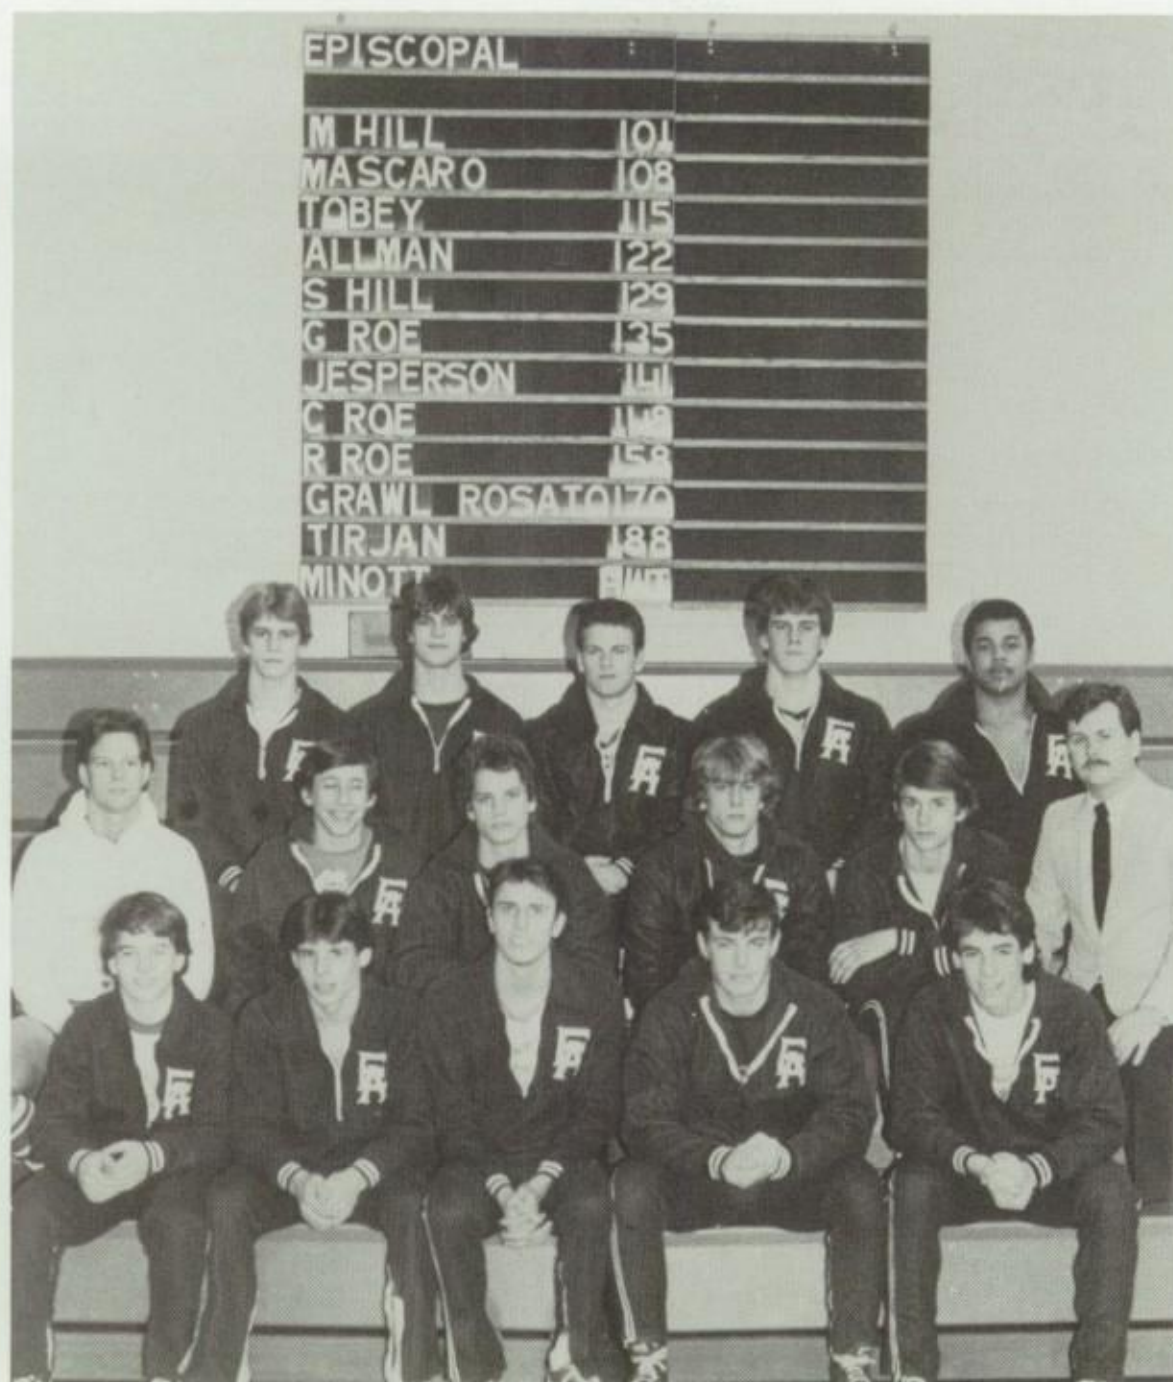

Without question, the obvious highlight of the season was E.A.'s victory over Penn Charter in the final game of the season. The little Quakers entered the game already having clinched the league title, but Episcopal spoiled their hopes of an undefeated league record by posting the 64-63 upset victory. Post season honors went to Tokarczyk, who along with being a first team All Inter-Ac selection, also became Episcopal's all-time single season scoring leader with 540 points. In addition, Rob Braker and Todd Pride were honorable mention All Inter-Ac selections. With two starters returning and the abundance of youth existing in the program, E.A. is a sound bet to return to its status as one of the elite basketball teams in the Philadelphia area.

Wrestling

FIRST ROW: M. Hill, Allman, Rosato, S. Hill. SECOND ROW: Mr. Hill, Mascaro, G. Roe, Raymer, Jesperson, Reynolds. THIRD ROW: C. Roe, R. Roe, Grawl, Tirjan, Minott.

This past season was a successful one for the wrestling team. Even though we ended up in fourth place in the Inter-Ac standings, the grapplers wrestled very well in the face of tremendous League competition. The team came up with an exhilarating upset tie against powerhouse Penn Charter, only to lose a heartbreaker to the eventual champion Haverford School squad, 30-27. Our final record was 13-5-1.

Senior Lee Allman finished his excellent E.A. wrestling career in style by demonstrating both great leadership and superior skill en route to an overall 25-6 record. After placing third in the local Radnor Tournament, he won the prestigious P.A.P.S.I.W.T. Tournament, beating long-time rival Dave Giorno (Penn Charter) in the finals. He ended his great season by placing sixth in the National Tournament. Travis Minott, wrestling at the heavy weight position, mastered some exciting upper body throws and joined Lee Allman as a place winner at the Nationals by capturing seventh place; during the tournament, Minott produced a 27 second pin against his Haverford opponent. Bob Jesperson, wrestling at 141 pounds, compiled a fine 13-1-3 dual meet record, losing one match by one point. Dom Tobey wrestled his best in the big matches, picking up key wins against tough opponents like Penn Charter's Shaifer and Haverford's Ruggerio. He and Jesperson pulled off some of the biggest victories of the season. Finally, Andy Waxler should be congratulated for his hard work and dedication over the past three years.

The team also featured a large group of talented underclassmen, led by juniors Rich Roe, Paul Tirjan, and Mike Grawl. The eldest Roe paved the way for his classmates by capturing second place at both Radnor and in P.A.P.S.I.W.T. Chris Roe and Sean Hill represented the sophomore class with "Creo" placing second at Radnor compiling a record equal to his brother's, 20-6. Other major contributors included Freshmen Gabby Roe and Mike Hill, and eighth grader Frank Mascaro. Bill Pope, Roger Ullman, Matt Baldwin, Andy Raymer, and seventh grader Ben Sweidel will all be important team members next year.

Without a doubt, the highlight of the season was the meet against Penn Charter. In a true team effort, our team was able to shock the much superior P.A.P.S.I.W.T. Champion Penn Charter team, 27-27. The standouts in this meet were those wrestlers who led the team throughout the season. Both Allman and Minott provided key pins, while Tobey, Jesperson, and C. Roe started with fast pin. The rest of the team wrestled up to its potential, bringing about this tremendous "victory."

Although this was not a championship season, it was certainly one to be proud of. The team wrestled very well against extremely good competition and proved to many doubters that it was a topnotch team. Next season, the team should definitely be in contention for the Inter-Ac Title.

Swimming

This year's E.A. swim team had its best season of the decade, with an overall record of 10-3, 2-2 in the Inter-Ac. The highlight of the season came with a surprise upset of perennial Inter-Ac swimming power Penn Charter, 87-84. This incredible victory, combined with the handy defeat of Haverford for the first time in eleven years, was enough for a tie for second in the well-balanced Inter-Ac league.

Third year head coach Mrs. Nancy McGuire, ably assisted by Mr. Jonathon Kulp, guided the team through tough practices as well as preparing the team psychologically for the meets. Once again, David Bradley ably managed the team, in addition to acting as press secretary and publicity chairman. He was assisted in his very tough job by Ayn Crawford.

The tankers fared excellently in the non-league meets, as well as in the Inter-Ac league, dominating foes, such as Harriton, Central, and Strathaven. Their only non-league loss came early in the season to Main Line power house Radnor. In the Inter-Ac, the team was once again decisively defeated by nationally ranked Germantown Academy. Their only other Inter-Ac loss came at the end of the season, at the hands of a well-coached Malvern squad. The unexpected victory over Penn Charter was only possible because of the tremendous coaching of Mrs. McGuire and expert line-up strategy of Mr. Kulp.

The team was expertly led in the water by co-captains Crae Ramsey and Andy Baxter. These two led a powerful contingent of senior tankers including Tom Nyheim, Mac Patterson, Hoby Rowland, Charles Lucas, Frank Nester, Paul Hertel, and Brooke Fesperman. Adding to this strong nucleus of seniors were juniors David Ryan, Rodney McGovern, Pete Mandeville, and newcomers John Paris, as well as Larry Esmonde and Rich Quinn. Dave Ryan finished the season undefeated in the Inter-Ac diving meets and finished second at I.A. Championships. Sophomore Nancy Patterson and Junior Peter Mandeville contributed greatly as divers under the expert tutelage of Dave Ryan.

Lots of hardwork, determination, team spirit, and excellent coaches all added up to an excellent season.

Girls' Basketball

G. Basketball

The Girls' Varsity Basketball team had a fine season overall. The team was very successful in the girls' Inter-Ac league. Under the coaching of Miss Nancy Evans, the team improved tremendously.

The team was led by captain Kim Crawford who finished second overall in scoring with 124. She was noted for her high percentage from the foul line and for an average of six steals per game. She had her best game against Shipley with 21 points. She also played well against Sacred Heart as she scored 18. Jen Bates, the team's high scorer with 138, was another key player. She used both her height and strength to penetrate on offense. In her best outing she scored 21 points.

Rhonda Clinton contributed greatly to the team's success as she led the team in rebounds. She scored 76 points overall with game highs of 15 and 16. Another senior starter, Daphne McCurdy, was plagued with a serious ankle injury. She missed 5 important games, but returned for the Agnes Irwin game and gave us the edge we needed to win.

The whole team worked well together. Ann Madara and Kathy Otis contributed to the tight defensive and offensive playmaking. Sara Snable, the outside shooter, had 64 points this season and was high scorer against Abington. Tara Warrington, the only freshman, was a very versatile player playing well on both offense and defense throughout the season.

The Sacred Heart and AIS games were the two highlights of the season. The Sacred Heart contest was the closest game of the year going into double overtime. E.A. had the lead throughout the first half, and by the end of the third quarter the game was too close to call. They managed to tie the game taking it into the first overtime after which the game was still tied. Finally, in second overtime, Otis was able to put in a shot to put us up by two and Kim Crawford secured the victory with two shots from the foul line — 50-46.

The AIS game was the most important game of the season. The whole first half the team worked to cut down on an early AIS lead. Determination led the team to a third quarter lead. Throughout the fourth quarter the lead changed hands and many players were in foul trouble. The support of the fans aided the team to a slim but well deserved 29-28 EA victory.

The victory over AIS gave the team second place in the Inter-Ac. The final record for the season was 7-7 and 4-1 in the Inter-Ac.

Squash

Mr. Kent, Callahan, Rosenburgh, Ritchie, Smith, Lorry, Crockett, Milner, Lenhard, Haley.

When one thinks of the 1983-84 Varsity Squash team, which I might add is probably not very often considering the turnout at many of the matches, they think of a year of firsts. Not the firsts as in places but as in times. For many of the players on the team it was their first year on the varsity squad and for some their first year of squash. The only returning veterans were Brian Callahan, who did not lose a high school match, Fred Crockett who boasted, and I mean boasted an almost equally impressive record, and our quiet captain Nicholas Ritchie who had a fine season also. Between the three of them they have two more years experience than the rest of the team combined. For Andy Rosenberg, Wren Smith, Walt Lenhard, and George Milner it was their first year of varsity competition. Even more impressive Bill Sweidel and Dave Lorry contributed to the team in their first year of the sport. It was even the first year of new head coach Thomas Kent.

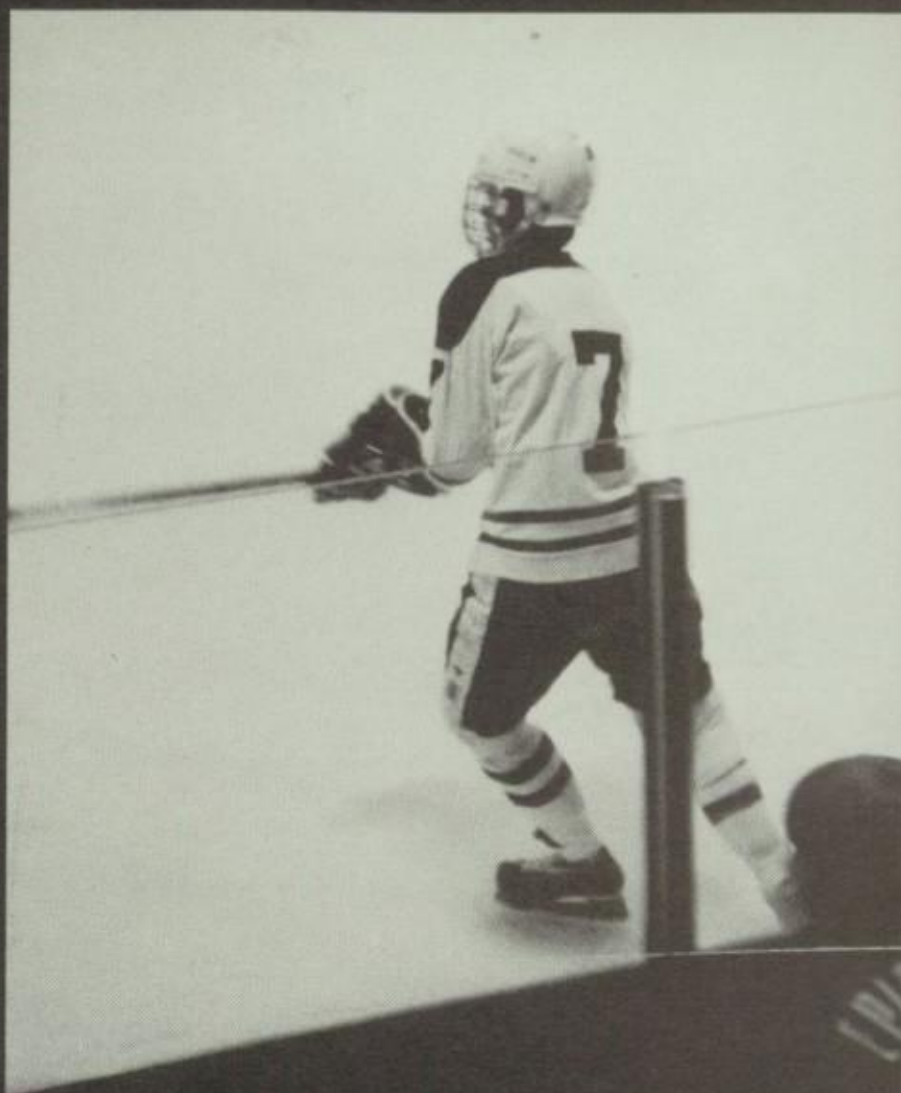

The team did not win a championship or even come in second but all involved with the 83-84 squash team "had a good time" in the words of Coach Kent. Next year's team should fair very well with the whole top seven returning with the exceptions of Nick Ritchie and Fred Crockett. On a more solemn note, the leadership, wisdom, and driving expertise of Mr. Whelan will be sorely missed by generations of squash players to come.

Ice Hockey

In its second year as a varsity sport and its first year with a junior varsity, the ice hockey team went through a learning year. While the season wasn't the team's strongest, winning only one game and losing fifteen, it was a year that saw many young players develop. Freshmen Paul Yeakel and Doug Blatchford played well and show great promise for the years ahead, along with sophomores Mark Moderski and Chris Tinari. The team was led by captain Joe Campanale, who played very well at center along with assistant captain Jon Blatchford on defense. Senior Brian Louderback, after missing the first part of the season with knee problems, came back to lead the team in goals. Strong play from linemen John Dornberger, Bill Conlan and Tom Dietz helped the team improve with each game. Seniors Vince Powers on defense and humorous goalie Bill "Chickenhead" Keffer kept our defense tough. Next year's team will be looking for leadership from Charlie Katz, Greg Siegler, and Neil Ruben, and they will hopefully feel the improvement of this year. The team would like to thank ex-Flyer Joe Watson for all his help and inspiration, as well as Coach Win Shafer who has made hockey at Episcopal possible.

Well, it's been many years since the days of "strokin' my old clarinet," injured nursemaids and Dave Bradley's funny-looking glasses. And now it's the modern era (1983-84), brimming over with more Domino Club masterpieces.

Our story begins with Charlie's Aunt, a play made possible through an extraordinary act of self-denial on the part of our noble director, Mr. Muir, who, having vowed not to direct in that torrid spring of 1983 (sounds great doesn't it?), heroically took up his coffee thermos and cigarette carton once again to produce (not to be confused with producers, who wear leather ties and make "goofy" speeches at debates) the first all — E.A. play. With such magnanimous sentiments behind it, Charley's Aunt commences, as slapstick comedy is discovered to be really painful, the chase scene is choreographed to the tune of The Benny Hill Show, and Mrs. Boynton, late from her appointment, makes guest (or ghost) appearances at early rehearsals. Dave Bradley once again steps out into the limelight as Chris Toomey fades back to the lighting board and Rog Reynolds emerges as the histrionic stage manager, his role to be consummated when he is forced to butler just before performance. Skirts are a casualty as cries of "What! Ripped another one? Richter, you clod, can't you walk like a lady!?" become commonplace. Cast party at Rog's.

A Man for All Seasons opened with the deflowering of Dave Bradley — he is no longer a noli-me-tangere (that's Latin for touch me not); he was, in the immortal words of Dave Bauer, "the common man's Common Man." Oh, and Richter, he got the lead again. (Some say our worthy President is conceited, I say he's just off his head, or, at least, was by the end of the show). This production marked the debut of a new director, Mr. Newberg. Only a year before a mere underling who did not even get his name on the program, he is now a real director ("it's good to be de King," eh., J.N.?). By the way, what's the difference between George Milner and Michael Smith? A: One got burned with More, and the other got burned with Cromwell (why settle for Les?), while the cast just felt the heat from an inflamed Dave Bauer. Speaking of heat, and Dave, how did the lighting go? Sweat much, Dave L.? Poor guy!

Rog came into his own on this production, too, becoming the first stand-up stage manager — "he's so silly." Great, Rog, but, please, "stop touching the cast members. They (elles) can't concentrate. By the way, how's the set coming?" Ah . . . memories. Do you remember Larry's, Mark? And the telegram? Oh, yeah — the stripper was too expensive. Sorry about all this, Mr. Newberg, just "joshin". Really, J.N. — baby, I love ya! Um, Is it Willard, or Willy? (It's not Luther!)

Almost all kidding aside, A Man for All Seasons couldn't have done better by any other school, regardless of facilities. Meanwhile, this spring's production is Carnival, a musical about puppets starring raggedy Ayn and Andy in their first leads, Dave Bradley playing the same role he had in Charlie's Aunt, and a well-deserving Michele Rast as a well-deserving Rosalie. Could be great, but it seems as if Mr. Muir is concerned with another show, in which he's playing himself! Yes, there is a cask, er, cast being fortified with Mr. Muir as a portly Sherry. (Whew! Got out of that one by the skin of my teeth!)

P.S — Cast party at Rog's — another Ghandi!

Blues

Blues

Fuguet, Cassidy, Fine, Owens, Baxter, Quinn, Young, Richter, Yoo, Smith, Blenko.

The Episcopal Academy Blues recovered from a long slump under the direction of John W. Powell, III.

The 1983-84 season was the best in the history, despite limited rehearsal time during lunch. We even managed to memorize all our music, and the school song. The Blues definitely outclassed the Bluesettes or Bluebells (we don't know what they call themselves) each time we sang together. Those solos really killed the Bluesettes — The Manhattan Transfer was much better.

The Blues were made up of a varied group of thirteen. Returning veterans were Andy Baxter, Meredith Richardson, Dave Fuguet, Rich Owens, Rich Quinn, and Mike Smith. Under special circumstances, freshmen were admitted to the Blues. It's a good thing; otherwise there would not have been anyone singing tenor or bass. The outstanding freshmen were Jim Blenko and Hank Adamczyk. Singing back-up vocals were Paul DeSanctis, Dave Fine, John Yoo, Jamie Richter and Roy Young. The baritone solo in "All the Things You Are" (arranged by J.W.P., III) was one of the highlights of the season.

The other highlight was the opportunity to rehearse at the Powell estate in Gladwyne several times. Mr. Powell, in his gracious hospitality, showed us the finer points of Main Line Living (especially that black book in which he rates "Les jeunes femmes" of the Main Line).

This is all we could write without getting J.W.P., III in more trouble than he already is in. Thank you Mr. Powell for returning us to a position of envy and respect.

Bluesettes

Bluesettes

Iams, Matzko, Black, Phillips, A. Crawford, K. Miller, Marston, Castro, Perch, Williams, Cole, Taormina.

With songs spanning from jazz to folk music and renaissance to musical comedy, the Bluesettes have quickly expanded their repertoire during their first two debut years. Along with this increase in songs has come increased singing exposure to the Episcopal community. In addition to singing in the concerts with Shipley and Baldwin, the Bluesettes made their first-ever appearance in front of the entire Upper School during the Agnes Irwin assembly concert. Their performance was comparable to that of the Agnes Irwin singers, and their greater ease at singing both new and familiar material was apparent. Although the Bluesettes are not yet an Episcopal tradition, like the Blues are, the encouragement that they give each other and the support of their peers is sure to quickly establish them permanently in the musical life of Episcopal.

To the sophomore and juniors —
Keep up the super job — the best is yet to come! We'll miss you!

Another excellent year for the Junto. Headed by Dave Mendels, Rob Baron, and Katherine Sherk, the Junto had its highest attendance levels ever. Topics debated were aid to Nicaragua, Gambling, the Draft, Euthanasia and relations with South Africa. Our impromptu debate on prostitution was one of the highlights of the season.

This year marked Episcopal's first ever debate with Baldwin on abortion and co-education. Episcopal won the first debate and popular opinion believed we won the second as well. With 93 students in attendance, it was the Junto's most successful event ever. Hopefully it will become an annual event in the future.

Once again food proved key to the outcome of the debates. Perhaps the best spread was provided by the Franks who supplied enough cold cuts for a whole season of debates.

We'd like to especially thank all those families who hosted debates and the faculty members who acted as judges. Thanks also to our faculty advisor, Mrs. Tyre, for another great year.

Tabula

Tabula

Patterson, Jacobs, Jannetta, Dornberger,
Crawford, Reynolds, Smith, Lowry, Plzak.

This year's Tabula staff was, well, unique. It was the first staff with girls at respectable positions — thank goodness. Though the book took us a little longer than expected, we did finally complete it. We are still trying to figure out the purpose of deadlines. Actually we had legitimate excuses for ignoring the target dates. Rarely did we work with a complete board. Explanations ranged from the necessity to go to the Sunday Vigil Mass to the fact that there was something better to do. Hoping that the superfluous practice in creativity found in the reasons for missing meetings would lead to ingenious ideas for the book was overly optimistic thinking.

The rare assembly of the entire staff taught us a great deal. The most valuable theorem proved was that Jeannie is unable to calmly deal with a large group of totally disorganized people. The staff quickly, but not quickly enough, learned that there are two ways to do things: Jeannie's way and the wrong way. The corollary to this theorem states: every party has a pooper, and that's why we have you as co-editor.

Luckily, Mac was the other editor. His excessive laid back attitude compensated for Jeannie's overbearing structure. Mac's modo was "if it doesn't fit, make it." What is the use of a proportional wheel anyway? It just makes the job much more complex. Mac also generously supplied us with his peculiar taste in music. Who listens to Kool and the Gang anyway? One of Mac's major roles was to boost the morale of the staff members whose ego had just been struck by the other editor. Right, Dave? Dave and Mac became close friends during this rough straight.

Kim found it difficult to make it to the meetings on time; however, she made up for lost time by often working until the early hours of the morning. Sometimes she even did something in these hours. Unfortunately, her ideas for layouts became imaginative to an unusual extreme as the clock ticked off the hours. Fortunately, she was able to quietly break into her house at 2 a.m. without waking her parents up. (And you thought you got away with it.) Kim's job swayed from being a general editor, to being the avid recruiter for photography specialist Ann Madara, then she, herself, became a picture expert, and, finally, she was back again as an associate editor.

Speaking about Ann, she bailed us out of a very tight situation. Eager Ann was our "stand-up" mad photographer. As the frenzied weeks of pictures went by, she began to hide from us. But, detectives Jeannie and Kim were able to track her down at C.K.'s Grandmother's house on Friday night. There was absolutely no escaping for her. Dave Lorry, the other photographer got off to a slow start, but, eventually, he gained momentum and actually printed the five rolls of film he had developed three weeks ago. Who really cares if half of them were out of focus?

Sue was a hard worker, but more than that, she was a fantastic person for Greg to talk to during the meetings. Often meetings came as a shock to Sue, nevertheless, she was still able to get to them. She just had Chris deliver her. Oh, because her car was in the shop, not because . . . Anyway, you really ought to watch out for those crawling curbs.

Greg's modeling experience was evident at the meetings. He seemed to think that his job was to stroll around and have people admire the latest fashion in Tabula attire. His layouts were diverse, and . . . interesting. How about making the Vestry page upside down? By the way, cute expressions behind my back. I saw that.

John was always willing to do any job for the book, well, almost always, that is to say, when he wasn't hungover. He hosted our latest meeting to date (before tonight's final shin dig which may last forever). The staff, at the end of this gathering at 4 a.m., consisted of two people. It was the day before vacation and everyone had to say good-bye to their sweethearts.

The patience of Roger Reynolds must be commended. Roger was the only one who made five rough drafts for every layout. His favorite topics for discussion were: movies, dreams, and women. We also thank him for his philosophical input.

At first it seemed that Brian, our Business Manager, was more concerned with the prom and its theme; however, this changed as if a swift breeze turned him around. In one week Brian was able to compile 55 pages of ads. Everyone had at least one flaw, Brian was almost an exception. Unfortunately, the day before the absolute deadline and the day after this designated date he ruined this virtually spotless record. A minor mix-up, the material for the last fifth of the book went down to the shore accidentally. Then, the next day, the ads were floating around somewhere while Brian floated in the Lower Merion pool. That's o.k., it was more fun watching the Academy Awards anyway. By the way, sorry there wasn't enough room for your ten page play-by-play detailed football write-up.

After realizing that the novel idea of having the Tabula published bi-yearly as a new tradition was unrealistic, the staff was determined to finish the book for this year's bicentennial, not next year's.

We'd like to thank our faculty advisor for his help and advice and, we cannot forget, Mr. Solari, who tolerated our procrastination.

Providing the school community with vital information about current events through investigative reporting and comprehensive editorials. This is the goal of The Academy Scholium. Anybody ever associated with the paper knows, however, that this goal goes out the window when "dummy night" rolls around. By using imaginative and innovative lay-out ideas, the editors of the Scholium tried to end "dummy nights" by 1:00 or even 2:00 in the morning. It never worked.

Once again the staff had to make high level decisions. Should another one of Sarowitz's inane and humorless columns be printed? Should they order food from Gino's or Roy Rogers? Should Richter be allowed to get on his saxophone and preach to anyone who wanted to listen? Should parts of "dummy nights" be set aside to talk about the latest social events of the school? Should all the editorial responsibilities be bagged so as to discuss personal matters with friends?

By lessening the number of issues, the board hoped to improve the quality of the paper. The jury is still out. Some things never change, however. Rob will always be more interested than anyone else in the gossip within the school. Andy, supposedly one of the news editors, will always be too busy (because he has eight tests the next day) to show up for "dummy night." Dave will always want to kill Mark for his late articles. Kim will always want to create strange lay-outs when the sports page lay-out does not work the first time. Scott will always be moody, changing his mood several times throughout the night. Dave's pictures will always be . . . interesting.

Thank you Mr. Hess for bearing all this in your first year. Hopefully your years to come will be easier. Then again, maybe not.

Student-Faculty Senate

Senate

FRONT ROW: Mr. Cave, Mr. Hess, Pagano, Dugan, Mrs. Manning. SECOND ROW: Mr. Schroeder, Ackah, Jannetta, Simonian, Richter, Mrs. Hay, Lisak, Hill, Mr. Kulp, Mr. Spear.

The 1983-84 Student-Faculty Senate had a very productive year under the leadership of their executive board, consisting of Student Chairman Ted Pagano, Vice-Chairman Mr. Hess, and Secretary Jim Dugan. Going into the year, the objectives of the board were to put more organization and structure into the bi-weekly meetings. The idea behind this was to deal with the everyday "housekeeping" details in a more effective manner, thus allowing more time for open student-faculty discussion.

To accomplish this, the Senate created three major standing committees: disciplinary, extracurricular, and operational. These committees helped facilitate the more routine matters through the senate. Out of them came reports recommending amendments to the disciplinary system, a proposed cafeteria clean-up system, and up-dated dance regulations. Also, the extracurricular activities committee was instrumental in overseeing a proposal to create a new student magazine at Episcopal. Under this committee's guidance, the magazine, named "Snap!", was able to put out three publications in a very successful initial year.

Because the committees served their purpose, the Senate was afforded more time for open forum. The most noteworthy discussions of the year centered around ways to upgrade the role of class officers, improve the format of class elections, and decrease some of the pressures on students around exam time. Open campus privilege, which in the past has been a controversial issue, was handled very efficiently and without much debate. Additionally, the Senate saw the possibilities of a future typing course and student exchange program move one step further towards realization.

In summary, the 1983-84 Senate achieved many diverse goals that touched the school in many ways. It has set a good example for future senates to follow in its ability to compromise and work together as a harmonious body towards common goals.

Vestry

This year's Vestry provided a well balanced and varied program for a community of diverse faiths. One of the primary objectives was to take what was said and extend it into the community. This goal was ably accomplished in conjunction with the Community Service Program. From increasing attendance at Friday morning communions to unprecedented offerings the participation of the students was an integral part of the success of the program.

The Vestry provided occasional "standard" services with traditional foundations as well as musical services, plays, and guest speakers. Speakers like Reo Picker, Leon Bass, Cardinal Kroll, Rabbi Sax all provided different views and approaches to questions and topics relevant to our everyday lives. And, of course,, the incomparable rendition of Dicken's "A Christmas Carol" was as popular and as informable as ever.

The Vestry led by Senior Warden Dave Bradley produced services that were as interesting as they were varied. The offerings in Chapel were the most generous they have ever been. The Vestry, led in this area by accounting Warden Chris Giles, gave substantial aid to a wide variety of organizations. The Christian Children's Fund, The Sunshine Foundation, The Melmark School, and many others were aided by the contributions of the Episcopal community.

The Vestry meetings, as humorous as they often were, were very productive. Ideas for services and the latest in humor were discussed and explored. The service which the Vestry provides for the school has become more apparent in the lives of the students and through the guidance of Reverend Squire, Reverend Craighill, and Reverend Kilhour this trend will continue.

Sweetness,
 You were as successful, intelligent, sweet, and beautiful in your senior year, as you were in the two years we spent together at E.A. The time we shared in the past three years has been wonderful, and I should hope that we will continue to make memories for us(?) to reflect on. Jenny, you will forever be a special person to me. I will always cherish the T.L.C. that only you can give. Congratulations.

Dearest Amanda:

As an alumnus of the Academy and Vice Chairman of the board of Trustees, I am extremely proud of the accomplishments of your outstanding class in this, our Bicentennial year. As your father, I could not be more proud of you and all that you have done both academically and otherwise at Episcopal. You and your brother are your father's greatest treasures and it is now time to share you with the world. You go well prepared.

Pat joins me in sending love to you and wishing your class great success in the future. May you always walk in the sunshine.
